Apria Introduces a New Era in Homecare Order Management

Launch of ApriaLink brings a higher level of efficiency and control to the homecare order management process than ever before.

January 25, 2016, Lake Forest, CA – Apria Healthcare, a leader in home medical equipment and homecare services, today announced the launch of ApriaLink, the first-ever electronic order management system from a national HME.

“With this ground-breaking portal, Apria is investing in our customers and leading the industry by putting powerful electronic homecare order management in the hands of our customers – giving them greater efficiency and more control over the process.” said Dan Starck, CEO of Apria Healthcare. “Healthcare professionals can quickly and efficiently shift patients from the high-cost acute setting to the lowest-cost home setting through electronic means.”

ApriaLink provides homecare professionals a range of benefits:

- Instant, real-time access to the status of all Apria orders
- Simple, clear guidance about resolving issues around specific orders – including instructions for pending documentation requirements
- Ability for physicians to sign electronically a Certificate of Medical Necessity for Medicare oxygen orders
- Ability to place new prescription orders online

APRIA HEALTHCARE®

“ApriaLink represents our commitment to leveraging powerful integrated tools that enable us to work smarter and more efficiently with patients and customers.” said Starck. We believe ApriaLink is a powerful step forward for homecare, creating a whole new era in homecare order management.”

ApriaLink is a web-based tool that is completely HIPAA compliant, encrypted, and secure from inappropriate access. ApriaLink complies with all industry standard security assessments and certifications, and employs strong algorithms to encrypt data transmission between the user and the portal.
